Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.

Art Unit: 1743

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mian et al (6319469).

Mian et al (6319469) teaches a disk having assay components on one side and conventional CD-RW media on the other (col. 8, lines 1-15). Disks the same size as commercial CDs are preferred (col. 8, lines 20-29). Figure 1C shows plural assay components around the outer portion of the disk. Figures 14A-F show the laser reading of the CD data towards the center of the disc. Erasable components are included (col. 27, line 16). Data on the disk can provide disk rotation speed (col. 20, lines 25-30) and other programming and assay performance instructions, identify the disk by serial number (instant unique code), and provide diagnostics, among other features (col. 28, lines 25-65). User information and acquired data are written to the disk, as are a history of procedures performed (col. 28, lines 41-65) and the history of events during a procedure, such as valve status (col. 30, lines 30-35) or flow diagnostics (col. 31, lines 59-65). Patient identity can be input (col. 34, line 46). The set of analyses to be performed can be limited or exhaustive (col. 29, lines 11-16), suggesting that more than one type of assay is provided on the disk. The disk is used with a CD-ROM reader/player and CPU (e.g., Figure 15 and description thereof) to perform the method as claimed.

Mian fails to teach data in a continuous spiral track.

Kimura teaches that a CD conventionally has a spiral track (col. 3, lines 21-28).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to record the data of Mian in a continuous spiral track in order to provide conventional CD technology as taught by Mian, such conventional technology including a spiral track as taught by Kimura.

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

5. Zaffaroni additionally teaches assay wells on the outside edge of a disk and data bands on the inner edge (Figure 6A).
